Oak Cottage at Maple Lane, USA

Turning over a new leaf in behavioural mental health

Issue

Oak Cottage at Maple Lane is the first mental health care program in Washington state that isn't centralised. It's part of an effort to change how behavioral health services are provided across the entire state. This behavioural mental health (BMH) facility dedicates itself to creating a patient-centric healing environment that places the utmost priority on safety.

Approach

In BMH facilities, bathroom and shower areas are high-risk zones because patients may spend time alone with minimal or no supervision. BCRA Design desired a floor and wall solution for these areas that prioritised tamper resistance, safety, and durability. Their objective was to implement a system that eliminated the need for trim pieces or sealants while seamlessly integrating with the floor covering. Through a collaborative effort with their local Altro representative, BCRA Design ultimately specified Altro Whiterock and Altro Aquarius.

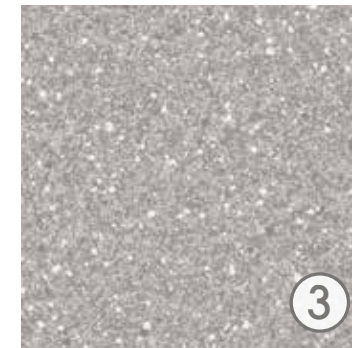

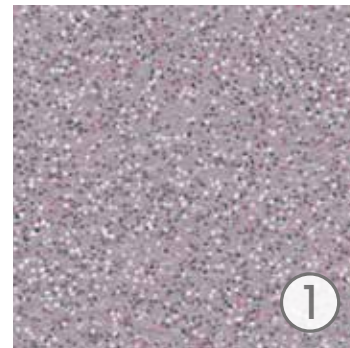

Solution

BCRA Design chose Altro Whiterock for its durability, impact resistance, hygienic properties, and ease of cleaning. With its impressive impact resistance, Altro Whiterock ensures that it can endure the stresses of potentially aggressive behaviour without chipping or cracking. Altro Aquarius and Altro Pisces were selected for lasting performance in wet rooms and bathrooms and high slip resistance, making them the ideal choice for patient bathroom and shower areas.

"Together, Altro Whiterock, Altro Pisces and Altro Aquarius enable Maple Lane to facilitate treatment while prioritising the safety and security of users and staff across all bathroom and shower areas."
