Altro floors for design and quality at busy aquarium

Hull, England, UK

The Deep Aquarium is an education and conservation charity. It is currently one of the UK's largest aquariums, with over 3,500 fish, stunning marine life and plenty of activities for patrons of all ages. Located in Hull, The Deep Aquarium takes visitors on a journey of the world's oceans traveling through a unique blend of beautiful marine life from warm tropical waters to the cold Antarctic seas.

With an average of 450,000 visitors each year, the high volume of foot traffic had worn down the floors to the point where they required a more durable replacement. The Deep was keen to install a slip-resistant vinyl flooring for the visitor walkways and ramps.

Altro Reliance 25 was selected to provide a durable solution underfoot for the visitor walkways to keep patrons safe, while Altro Wood was installed throughout the adjoining restaurant. "We chose the Altro flooring range based on their safe, hard-wearing and attractive appearance for our customers," stated Jason Bache, Facilities Manager for The Deep. "The choice in range appealed, giving us solutions to the different areas and environments within the attraction, complementing the styling and quality needed to work within the aquarium."
