Perfect floors for spoilt paws

“We saved a lot of time on installation by using an adhesive-free floor. It was economical for the customer as they re-opened the next day and didn't lose any custom.”

Perfect floors for spoilt paws

Issue

Pooch Professional Canine Services, a growing local business, was looking to improve the experience for customers and their canine companions in the studio. Newly refurbished, the studio needed a floor that could cope with a lot of human and canine foot traffic. The studio has a “no secrets” approach and all areas where the dogs are handled are visible to the public, so the floor also needed to look good, and be easy to keep clean. The customer reception and retail area also needed to make an excellent first impression.

Approach

The studio is divided into two areas – one for grooming and one for bathing the dogs. The bathing area needed to provide safety from slips on water or shampoos, and the grooming area comfort for the staff as when grooming, they stand for long periods of time. It was imperative that the new floor was installed quickly as the studio is extremely busy and did not want to lose any custom.

Solution

Altro Wood adhesive-free was installed in the grooming area in colour Oxford Oak. With one in a million slip-resistance reassurance, it provides a safe, durable, and decorative solution for the busy space. The contractor’s favourite, Altro Walkway 20 was installed in the bathing area in colour Swan. This versatile, hard-wearing safety flooring gives sustained slip resistance throughout the lifetime of the product.

“As a high-end studio, our customers expect a warm, welcoming reception and comfort for their dogs. Both floors were perfect for what we needed and look great.”
